

Here are two more opportunities of interest for ACS members:

Worship, Liturgical Space and Church Building (Call for Papers)

Andrea Longhi (Politécnico di Torino, Italy) and Esteban Fernández Cobián (Universidade da Coruña, Spain) are chairing a session on "Worship, Liturgical Space and Church Building" at EAHN Second International Meeting (European Architectural History Network) in Brussels (in early June 2012). The call for papers is available here (deadline 30 Sep 2011). For more information, go to:

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Health & Society Scholars program is designed to build the nation's capacity for research, leadership and policy change to address the multiple determinants of population health. The program is based on the principle that progress in the field of population health depends upon multidisciplinary collaboration and exchange. Its goal is to improve health by training scholars to:

- investigate rigorously the connections among biological, genetic, behavioral, environmental, economic and social determinants of health; and
- develop, evaluate and disseminate knowledge and interventions that integrate and act on these determinants to improve health.

The program is intended to produce leaders who will change the questions asked, the methods employed to analyze problems, and the range of solutions to reduce population health disparities and improve the health of all Americans.

Note: the info about this last opportunity was provided by ACS member Dennis Winter (thank you!)
